Farm Group Attacks State Road Situation

CHICAGO, Ill.—Farm representatives tackled the Illinois road situation in separate resolutions Thursday. In each they expressed considerable unhappiness with current road programs.

The actions came in closing sessions of the annual meeting of the Illinois Agricultural Assn.

Under attack by the nation's largest statewide farm group are the proposed $50 million dollar federal highway program, the state toll road system, multiple road districts, unsafe highway and farm produce trucking regulations.

The delegates said that while access to markets is a serious concern of the agricultural producer and farmers have supported bonds and tax increases for state and rural roads, the group opposes the federal program.

"The federal government," said one resolution, "is now levying a two-cent a gallon tax on all gasoline thus infringing upon the agricultural agreements for the rearmament of Germany for Western defense."

Under parliamentary procedure our members believe road bonds will or ratified automatically by the intention of including Communist China as possible.

Only one point of difference remained and diplomatic quarters predicted this would not stand in the way of unanimous approval of the plan by the U.N.

The only difference outstanding between the East and West now is a Western stipulation limiting invitations to a scientific conference to members of the U.N. and its specialized agencies. Russia wants no restrictions, apparently, with the intention of including Communist China as possible.

U.S. Delegate Henry C. Lodge Jr. rejected the proposal with the comment that the work for a peaceful pool should not be delayed by the sharp differences on states not members of the U.N.

The new East-West agreement reached after long and involved conference was contained in a resolution sponsored by the United States, Britain, France, Canada, Australia, Belgium and South Africa.

Mendes-France Objects To Collins' Remarks

WASHINGTON, D.C.—French Premier Pierre Mendes-France expressed some objection Thursday evening to Gen. J. Lawton Collins, who bitterly attacked the agreements for Americans taking men which he called "the most over-training of anti-Communist Communists" in modern Indochina.

Diplomatic officials reported the B-5 agreement, Germany is known to Secretary of State Dulles' Atlantic Treaty Organization and in a meeting a few hours after he becomes armed under the expansion with President Eisenhower to be Brussels' Alliance, the other members of the union are Britain and Collins' remarks made France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Earlier, Prime Minister Churchill told London questioners it would be a mistake to mix the process of ratification with talks with the Russians. "I cannot think, meeting Room Properly damage or anything that would be worse," he declared.

FIGHTING THE COLD WAR

One could search a long time before finding an expert on world affairs who believes that the Russians want a shooting war with the free nations. But only the gullible imagine this means the Kremlin has abandoned its goal of world conquest.

It has been clear for many months that the Russians feel there is more to be gained—at less risk—in pursuing the kind of political and economic combat which has come to be known as the Cold War.

There is plenty of evidence that free-world diplomats understand this. They seek to build defenses in this field every bit as stout as those deemed necessary on the military front. But they suffer handicaps.

Millions of people, particularly in long-beleaguered Europe, seem weary of any sort of struggle. They seek anxious refuge in neutralism, or, in their almost pitiful eagerness for tranquility, are too ready to believe Soviet professions of good will.

On the other hand, some cannot see the combat as anything but military. They are impatient of all expenditures not strictly for defense purposes, or closely related. They view money spent for economic warfare as "down the drain."

Yet the record of Russia's performance can afford no real comfort to either viewpoint. The Kremlin's declarations of good intentions are phony, and Soviet leaders demonstrate this not so much by occasional attacks on American or Allied planes as by their relentless economic and political aggressions.

Russia, of course, applies its pressures everywhere. But it sees its greatest opportunities on underdeveloped continents like Asia and Africa, where aching poverty and nationalistic ferment combine to stir the populace to action.

In most of these lands the Russian army can play no active revolutionary role. Many times the native Communist government is itself small. The impetus to rebellion must come from others more influential. But once trouble boils over, the Reds are adept at hijacking the revolt and making it their own. This is the essence of their technique—egging others to act and then seizing the fruits of their initiative.

In past months many sore spots have been eased—in Egypt, Iran, Trieste, Guatemala. But the great backward continents are still in turmoil. We have no grounds for complacency.

We hold it in our power to lead them toward economic betterment and political self-fulfillment. If we act boldly and consistently to aid them, these stirring peoples will rise to become economically healthy, independent, free.

If we shrink from this responsibility, if we pretend the struggle does not exist or that it is purely military in prospect, then Russia will move in to hijack and warp their surging drive for self-determination. Should that happen on any large scale, Asia and Africa, and with them much of our own national security, would likely go down the drain.

sure safety.

"In a single season we may take as many as 400 boars," my host said, "but I can't even recall the last time a hunter was accidentally killed."

"But aren't wild boars terribly dangerous?" I asked.

"Quite rarely," he assured me.

ST. HUBERT, Belgium.—Well, they always run from a man if you are one of the people to except when wounded and even whom I promised to bring back then seldom attack a hunter."

We go to some expense to keep it a wild boar's ear as a souvenir.

If it is a bad winter, we spread acros and potatoes in the forest so they will not suffer for lack of food.

I can't deliver, I'm coming home without the bacon.

It came to me only after a friend hunting hunting just I could see.

Well, that drained away my re-tried for peacetime spying within and made it all work. At the start he can't be tried for it at all. Hiss was never able to prosecute him for spying.

Every writer I know worth his salt is on safari in Africa, bag-grandpa boar calls his family to years after the war. The charge is that you are proving by going to us this year. It is a matter of when a man can be tried for espionage.

I'm after wild boar, that is an gratitude. We must let the hunters Chambers' part in the spy ring.

Even more important test of manhood is the war. Hiss committed to prove his manhood of the forest have been very kind! But there is no time limit on what you are proving by going to us this year. It is a matter of when a man can be tried for espionage.

With the help of the new immunity law Congress or grand juries could reopen investigations of peacetime and wartime spying. If they do they may want to question Hiss or grant immunity to others who might be called to testify against him. The penalty for wartime spying is death.

If through the immunity law the government got evidence which Hiss denied under oath, although wartime spying was not involved, he might find himself confronted with a brand new perjury charge.

So I'm coming home without my wild boar's ears. Anybody like a nice face handkerchief from Bruges?

"Now where do I borrow a spear and a horse?" I asked, recalling that the last time I had been on a horse was in 1936.

"Oh, that style of hunting went out long ago," my host, who has bagged nearly 100 wild boars, explained. "We use rifles now."

Then he described how it is done. It is all rather hereditary. The man who thinks the world You either have to inherit the land can't get along without him better or have considerable money, not try to prove it.

The wild boars are naturally hereditary. So are the dogs. If so many people didn't dislike the beaters who rout them out to do dishes, there would be far the deep forest recesses. So are fewer places in the refrigerator with many of the hunters who take up just a little dab of food on them.

hereditary dogs and hereditary We're sneaking up on the short-beaters to chase the hereditary last days of the year—but not to the little kids who are waiting for Santa Claus.

The direction you fire is also hereditary. You must shoot only down certain fixed lines. Why is it that a dog that belongs fixed perhaps by a great grand-somebody else never has much father of a present hunter to in-sense?

The World Today

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON.—Ager Hiss the ex-diplomat whose name has been used as a synonym for treason must have thought many times as the years slid past his prison cell.

What's in store for me? Will I be questioned again? Will I be in the headlines again? And perhaps for something else I say or deny will wind up in jail again?

He may not have to wait long for the answer. Wednesday two Un-American Activities Committee and the Senate Internal Security subcommittee said they're thinking of calling him after he gets out of jail Nov. 27.

Hiss's career crashed to a halt when Whittaker Chambers confessed on the cover of a Soviet spy ring to secret papers he said Hiss gave him.

For denying Chambers' charges, Hiss was convicted of perjury in 1950 and started serving his five-year sentence March 22, 1951. The verdict in effect branded him a liar and traitor. He is getting out after serving 3 1/2 years. The law provides time off for good behavior.

Hiss, a lawyer, will probably never be permitted to practice again. He's been disbarred in New York and before the Supreme Court. He has lost his citizenship rights. He can't get a passport to leave the country.

Hiss' lawyer, Chester Lane, of New York, says Hiss will try to vindicate himself.

The most Hiss could have hoped for was that he might not again have to face congressional committees or federal grand juries unless he could vindicate himself convincingly.

But there has been a fundamental change in the law—which the government may now want to use for further investigation of Hiss since he went to jail. This year Congress passed the immunity law as a weapon against subversion.

It lets the government, Congress and federal and grand juries grant immunity to a witness to force testimony against others.

At the time Hiss was jailed three committees investigating spying before, during or after the war could be blocked right and make the U. S. Thanksgiving Day the New York Times Sunday magazine Democratic Congress.

The president of Paraguay, Dr. Juan H. Soto said that the capital should be moved to Asuncion.

Frederico Chaves saw and thought of moving to Denver permanently.

At the time of the Thanksgiving Day celebration given by Americans at the U. S. Information Agency post in Asuncion, Dr. Soto said, "I am ready to move to Denver permanently."

He refused to testify under the Fifth Amendment which says a man can't be compelled to give testimony which might incriminate him.

Now if committees or grand juries working with the Justice Department want to investigate spying, they can single out one individual, perhaps minor suspect in a spy ring and tell him:

"We want you to tell us about this spy ring. Well, grant you immunity to punishment for anything you did. We want to use your testimony against the big shots."

A witness who refused to talk after being offered immunity could be cited for contempt and if convicted, jailed. Before the immunity law, if he refused to answer questions under the Fifth Amendment he couldn't be jailed for contempt.

Hiss neither refused to answer questions nor pleaded the Fifth Amendment. He denied he gave secret papers to Chambers and was convicted of lying. But the Anderson, D. N. M. case back to 1948, when he should have been prosecuted for spying.

It supposedly sprays about 200 gallons of water on an area 200 feet in diameter. The device, which looks like a mammoth lawn sprinkler in operation, right, is made from a sprinkler head mounted on an old automobile chassis. BAPTIST CLASS AT LITERBERRY PLANS CHRISTMAS PARTY

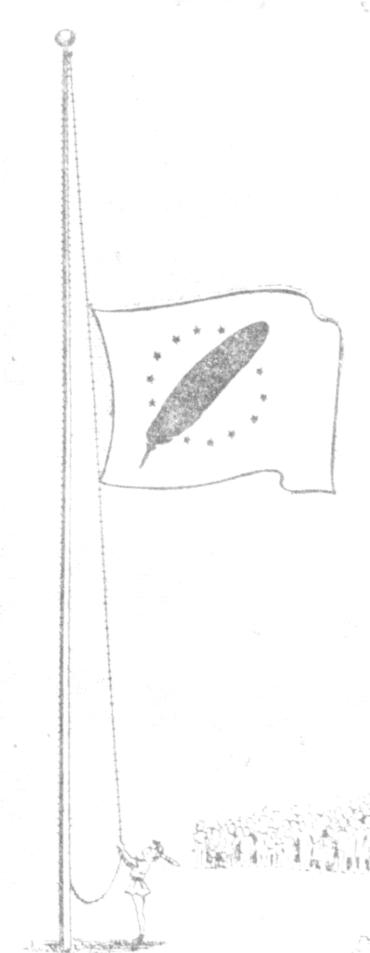

Plans for a Christmas meeting and the presenting of birthday gifts to two members of the Sunshine Booster Band class of the Interberry Baptist church were made at the meeting Nov. 10 at the home of Norma Wiswell.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Mary Kay McGinnis, and opened with the pledge to the flag. During the business session members decided to have a gift exchange at the December meeting. The session closed with the Lord's Prayer.

Birthday gifts were presented to Mary Jean Elliott and Norma Wiswell. Games were played directed by Mrs. Carolyn Elliott and prizes went to Prudy Gunner and Leanne Thompson. The hostess served refreshments.

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

The United States, in the negotiations with her allies on a reply to Russia's peace conference, project one impression that is doing her damage in Europe.

All the other countries are accepting Western European Union as a forerunner of resumed negotiations with Russia in an attempt to settle the Austrian and German partition problems.

The United States, having laid much less stress on this point, has given the impression in some quarters that she considers WEU an end rather than a means.

It is particularly important that the Germans get no impression that America is now satisfied.

Chancellor Adenauer apparently has the votes to put ratification of the Paris agreements through the Parliament at Bonn. But it's going to be a fight, and any increased fear that West Germany is signing away its hopes of reunification, an idea that already is widespread, would be dangerous.

Anthony Eden, the British foreign secretary, stressed the view which permitted Europe to go ahead with WEU when he said it should put the West in the best possible position of this generation.

From the beginning of the Marshall Plan through all the long EDC negotiations and the arrangements for WEU, the idea that Western strength would eventually force Russia to negotiate realistically has given impetus to American policy. But the United States is also very much aware of the dangers of a period in which the Reds might only be living low to await the opportunity for new expansionist moves.

The Europeans, despite the history of agreements which did not conform to actual situations sometimes seem interested in agreements for agreement's sake. The United States is more aware that when Russia agrees to stop interfering in the affairs of other countries when she publicly renounces aggression, it must be a real and not merely a diplomatic expression if peace is to mean anything.

Europe, however, is not satisfied merely with the oft-expounded attitude of the United States that the door is being kept open.

The Europeans want active planning too, by the new emphasis being placed on American economic aid to Asia as against the scheduled end of such aid to Europe next year.

SMALL PRICE CHANGES RECORDED THURSDAY

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO (AP) — Small price changes were recorded in grains on the Board of Trade Thursday as dealings in November soybeans and lard came to an end. Outstanding commitments must be settled by delivery of the cash commodity before the end of the month.

November soybeans were expected to provide some excitement, but didn't. They traded over a 5½-cent range, ending not far removed from where they had closed the previous session. November lard was a little wilder, ending on a split quotation of $15.25 to $14.25.

Wheat closed unchanged to 3½ higher, corn 1½ lower, oats unchanged to 3½ higher, soybeans 2½ lower to 1½ higher and lard 40 cents lower to 60 cents a hundred pounds higher.

The only gain in soybeans was by the November contract. Cash meal sold at $68.00 to $69.00 a ton, up $2.00 to $3.00, while cash oil sold at 12 cents a pound, up 1½ cent.

Wheat retreated early under mild profit taking which never became very urgent.

New York Bond Market

The steel, railroads and motors were quite active and lower at the close, and most major divisions sold off. There were, however, some significant plus signs in the major order issues, farm implements, building materials, utilities and a good array of individual issues.

The stocks fell off 90 cents at $143.60 Wednesday the average was up 70 cents at a 25-year high. The industrial component lost $1.50, railroad were off $1.00 and utilities eased 10 cents.

Volume totaled 3,530,000 shares Wednesday.

NEW YORK (AP) — The bond market was active but narrowly mixed Thursday.

After the close, the Treasury announced it would refund about 17½ billion dollars of maturing obligations with an optional exchange of 2½ per cent eight-year, eight-month of a million shares. That compares with 1,010,000 shares a year certificate or a 1½ per cent certificate maturing Aug. 15, 1955.

Financial circles were somewhat surprised at the government's refunding terms. Some had anticipated a long term bond would be part of the exchange. Others noted that the interest rate is above the current market.

Long term government bonds improved in over the counter dealings.

"Big Board" volume totaled $4,070,000 against $4,904,000 Wednesday.

Railroads changed hands rapidly but selectively producing no definite direction. Industrials and utilities were firm, with improvements noted in investment quality issues. However, convertible obligations declined with the stock market.

CHICAGO (AP) — Most hogs lost around 25 cents Thursday although some choice light weight butchers weighing less than 220 sold steady. Saleable receipts at 15,000 head were 5,000 above expectations.

Steers and heifers maintained steady prices in the cattle section, where saleable receipts totaled only 2,500 head. Top on steers was $27.50, paid for low prime types, with good and choice kinds going at $20.00 to $26.00. Comparable heifers brought $20.00 to $24.50.

Tells Morgan Society Value Of History In Preparing For Future

An understanding of the past is needed to chart a course into the future, Dr. Arthur Bestor of the University of Illinois told nearly 100 members of the Morgan County Historical Society at a 50th anniversary dinner last night.

Dr. Bestor, president of the Illinois State Historical Society, warned that "we are living in a time of crisis" and decried the "dangerous popular attitude" that history is not important in such a period.

"We hear the cry," he said, "that History . . . is concerned with the perspective of time and therefore gives some guidance to the future that we must forget history and live."

"It doesn't deal with contemporary problems in their own light. It teaches how similar problems were met in the past. The decisions of the past right or wrong—point to correct decisions in the present, he implied.

"History enables us to make better decisions as we make private decisions by reflecting on previous happenings instead of embarking blindly on a course of action."

Devotion to the present only, he concluded, cannot produce the genuine ideas upon which the future must be built.

Others Speak

Preceding Dr. Bestor on the afternoon program were Mayor Ernest L. Hoagland, Fidelia N. Abbott, secretary of the society, and Dr. Harry E. Pratt, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois State Historical Society.

The Mayor, a member of the society for many years and now on its board of directors, congratulated the leaders of the society for their work in the past 50 years. "We can predict the future of this society by surveying the past," he said. "It will be a fine future."

Mrs. Abbott read a paper detailing the history of the society. The Morgan County society, she related, grew out of two earlier societies formed in 1869 and 1884, and was chartered on November 18, 1904, five years after the formation of the Illinois State Historical Society.

The child was born Nov. 7, 1953 at the Passavant hospital. He is survived by his parents and the following brothers and sisters, Nina Lee, Henry, Paula and David. His paternal grandparents, Asa Turner of Jacksonville and Mrs. Ida Spaenhauer of Springfield and the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dell Fluckey of Versailles, also survive.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at the Williamson Funeral home with the Rev. C. E. Cox in charge. Interment will be made in Memorial Lawn cemetery. The family will meet friends from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday at the funeral home.

1,000 Children From Jacksonville Will See Circus

The State Armory in Springfield Thursday became the mecca for the young in heart throughout Central Illinois.

The occasion was the eighth annual Ansar Shrine-Polack Bros. Circus. The schedule called for performances at 3:45 and 8:15 Thursday and Friday, at 2:15 and 8:15 Saturday, and at 2:15 and 5:45 Sunday.

Throngs of children from a wide radius, who otherwise would not be able to see the circus, were to attend the first matinee by means of blocks of tickets donated by business and professional men, industrial concerns, fraternal organizations and civic clubs.

At Thursday afternoon's show there were 1,000 children from Beardstown, and a smaller party from Rushville. The Friday matinee will be attended by 1,000 from Jacksonville, 250 from Taylorville and more from Beardstown and Rushville.

This year's circus, almost entirely different from its predecessors, boasts an international array of acts, including baby elephants, bus drivers, cheer leaders, and other guests of honor.

W. J. Rutherford, high school principal, gave invocation. Mrs. Stanley McClure, mother of the captain of the first team, gave the welcome to the group with the response by her son. Table decorations were in maroon and gold, colors of the school, with footballs and apples with pennants in school colors in them for the men and pompons for the boys and other guests. A large floral bouquet made of golden mums with the center "54" in maroon hung on a bed of ferns with eight of a football player on each side and a coal post behind was the center of the decorations. Following the banquet a program was given consisting of reading by Robert Ricks and Mrs. F. N. McLaren and a series of novelties. The floral bouquet was presented to Mrs. McClure who was general chairman of the affair. Each played introduced himself and presented his father to the group.

A motion was made by Mrs. Lester Seales that this year we start serving refreshments at 1:30 p.m. and our meeting to follow.

It was voted for the secretary to mail the lesson sheets to the absent members. A motion to follow Mrs. Huver's suggestion that we have a contest this year, sides to be chosen by executive committee, was made by Mrs. Carney.

The major lesson, Preparing Cooked and Baked Foods for the Freezer, was easily given by Mrs. H. J. Brown and Mrs. Roy Brown. The selected subject, Homemakers Job in Protecting Health of the Family, was given by Mrs. Gilbert Luken.

Refreshments of date loaf and coffee was served by the hostess to two guests, Mrs. Harold Shipman and Mrs. Everett Turner and 15 members.

TURKEY DINNER

We looked everywhere for the finest Turkeys we could bring you to assure you of the finest Thanksgiving dinner you could imagine. And we found what we were looking for: ARMOUR STAR BROAD-BREASTED TURKEYS. WHAT makes these birds better than the rest? Why do we give you with each one a written guarantee that it must please you or your money back? Because each Turkey has passed rigid requirements for Grade A—not Grade B or Grade C. Experts who examine these birds as they are processed give the A grade only to the ones that meet these high standards:

1. Confirmation — must be normal. Breastbone: slight curve $\frac{1}{4}$ inch dent. Back, legs and wings: normal.
2. Fleshing — must be well fleshed, moderately long and broad breast, breast bone not prominent; only slight pouchiness.
3. Fat Coverings: must be well covered, some fat under skin over the entire carcass.
4. Pin feathers and Hair — Practically free from these.

Order your Turkey TODAY for the highest quality at these low prices. Be sure you are not disappointed because you do not order soon enough. Just tell the market man at your favorite EISNER FOOD STORE and you can serve your family the finest Thanksgiving Dinner ever!

ST. NICHOLAS CRYPT FLOODED

BARI, Italy (UPI)—The crypt where the original St. Nicholas, or Santa Claus, is buried was flooded Wednesday by a three-foot flood tide which swept into this ancient seaport.

Tempest driven waves 46 feet high smashed over the seawalls, flooding the old section of town and sweeping parts of houses out to sea.

Officials said no loss of life was reported.

BICYCLE SLEUTH

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—John Sciorino, 15-year-old "bicycle sleuth," has a citation for co-operation and a courtesy card from the Pennsylvania Police Chief's Assn.

The awards were made after he saw a burglar fleeing from a store. He pedaled along after the man until he spotted a policeman who made the arrest.

PIER ANGELI TO WED
VIC DAMONE

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—Actress Pier Angeli and singer Vic Damone obtained a marriage license Wednesday.

An MGM studio spokesman said the couple will be married next Wednesday in West Los Angeles.

The Brooklyn-born crooner, 25, met Miss Angeli, 22, while he was serving in the 7th Army in Europe, in 1952. The marriage will be the first for each.

in my life. The unexplainable of human beings charms me."

"Greg ran his fingers through his hair. "That could be serious," he said in a worried tone. "For a moment a picture flashed through his mind of Hesione Crain riding his horse at the trailer and its strange cargo."

"He isn't just idle curiosity on my part," Daggett told him himself. "Or into just what, whatever you may think, I have a kind of notion."

"Stop acting like a frightened spinster. I know what I am doing. Even if Kirby is recognized I'll keep him in the clear and protect Hannah. I am not afraid."

THAT night Greg dragged Daggett out for a walk. "What are you trying to do, taking a guy like Kirby along with us?"

"After that broadcast of yours?"

"All right," Kirby conceded, "after my broadcast. My sponsor got more fanatical letters than you would believe possible. Everyone was out for my blood. That's what the dear public can do to you when it gets aroused. And I say now as I said then that Perkins has no talents."

Rupert shook his head. "I do not understand."

"Mob psychology," Kirby told him grimly. "People are simply swayed away by mass emotion."

"Up to now," Daggett pointed out, "that fact has provided your bread and butter."

"Look here," Kirby protested, "you're acting like the public. I was sorry about Perkins, but after all, I could not possibly be blamed because the guy couldn't do it."

"All right, I could think of a lot of other words. You've got to be realistic about this. Kirby is a celebrity in a way. When someone recognizes him, there will be a spotlight thrown on this trailer."

"Well, what will they find?" Daggett asked maddeningly.

"Not only that are you covering up for Kirby—and let me tell you, he's the least popular man in the world for what he is!"

And that you are traveling in strange company. Here's Rupert Landry who made an illegal entry into the country and Hannah Blake posing as your niece. They'll get you for everything up to and including white slavery. You might as well be traveling with a load of dynamite."

Daggett was unshaken. "I've never enjoyed anything so much

in my life. The unexplainable of human beings charms me."

"Greg ran his fingers through his hair. "That could be serious," he said in a worried tone. "For a moment a picture flashed through his mind of Hesione Crain riding his horse at the trailer and its strange cargo."

"He isn't just idle curiosity on my part," Daggett told him himself. "Or into just what, whatever you may think, I have a kind of notion."

"Any girl," Greg insisted, "not to be deflected by the personal attraction, would be a find-up on the kind of a hunt."

"Any girl," in Rupert's opinion, would be an asset. Especially Hannah. She has done more than earn her keep, if you want to put it on that basis. She cooks and mends and cleans and shops and takes care of us all. She works herself to death."

"People like her have to work themselves to death," Greg retorted. "They take pride in it. It's their only claim to distinction. Every time you see someone down and out you pick him up, and what a collection! A guy his country doesn't want, a girl her mother didn't want, a fellow the public wants to tear him from limb to limb."

Daggett made no reply, which was unfair of him. Greg was simply trying to protect the old man.

"At last Greg capitulated. "I just hate to see you take a risky decision," he said, his tone revealing that he had given up.

New Floor Care Ends Waxing

One of the most difficult jobs of housekeeping is to keep linoleum and asphalt tile floors waxed and gleaming. Now thanks to Glaxo, it is no longer necessary to wax and scrub. All you do is apply Glaxo with a brush about twice a year. It maintains a high lustre, non slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work plus truly a beautiful floor. Glaxo is available at Bonine Hardware Co.

Challenges Draft Rule As Invasion Of Family Life

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A selective service directive advising draft boards that pregnancy is a status over which prospective draftees have control has been challenged by the U. S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The appeal court's challenge is contained in a decision involving Warren E. Talcott Jr., 29, of Los Angeles, commercial artist now with the Army at the Presidio in San Francisco. He asked the U. S. court in Los Angeles to grant him a writ of habeas corpus releasing him from the Army, but this was denied.

The appellate court cited an operations bulletin issued by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey to local draft boards, saying in part:

"Pregnancy is a status over which the registrant does have control, and it is therefore not a claim which can be classified under 'hardship' such as sickness, death or an extreme emergency beyond the registrant's control."

The appeal court said:

"We think the contents of the bulletin are morally and legally wrong. It invades the most sacred precinct of family life at a time when there should be the most complete mutuality between the spouses and in the face of nature's most demanding and significant urge in nature's scheme for propagating the species. It obviously charges the youth of the land with corrupting the family relation into a way of avoiding service for cowards."

Talcott, in asking for a release, said he was denied the chance to make a personal appearance before his draft board and was over age when classified 1-A in 1952.

Woman's Country Club Of Orleans Has Guest Night

The Orleans Woman's Country club met Tuesday evening, Nov. 9, at the Jacksonville Masonic Temple where a turkey dinner was served at 6:30 to 65 members and guests. The president, Mrs. Freda Heaton welcomed guests and expressed appreciation to the committees for their efforts in making the evening a pleasure.

Mrs. Addie Rawlings gave a summary of the past year's work attributed to each of the club's 23 members. The Orleans Woman's Country club, organized 86 years ago, is the oldest such organization in the United States. There were 2 charter members present, Mrs. Mary Strawn and Mrs. Laura Hallberg.

The program chairman, Mrs. Sylvia Strawn, announced the following numbers: vocal selections, "One Kiss" and "With a Song in my Heart." Miss Mary Devlin accompanied by Miss Margery Tubbs; saxophone number, "Indian Love Call" accompanied at the piano by Miss Devlin.

John May then showed pictures taken during his trip abroad last summer.

ICC Hopes To End ITR Hearings By Mid-December

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois Commerce Commission hopes to complete testimony by mid-December on proposed abandonment of passenger service by the Illinois Terminal Railroad.

At the conclusion of a hearing Wednesday, sessions for cross-examination of railroad witnesses were set for Dec. 9-10 in Springfield. Another hearing was scheduled Dec. 14 at Edwardsville to allow reception of views of ITR patrons in that area.

In the Wednesday proceedings the commission heard from 15 of 33 freight customers who have intervened in the case in support of the ITR abandonment plea.

They testified that they depended in varying degrees on ITR service and business would suffer if the railroad became insolvent and was forced to suspend all operations. Some said an ITR collapse would ruin them.

Behind this talk was the argument that financial losses on passenger service constituted a threat to drive the railroad into bankruptcy.

The witnesses included officials of sand and gravel companies, grain elevators and spokesmen for industries like Granite City Steel Co., LaClede Steel Co. and Alton Box Board Co.

Proposed abandonment of the 16 passenger trains operated by the electric line is being opposed by several of the cities served, including Edwardsville, Springfield and Virden.

ITR witnesses testified at previous hearings that the railroad's passenger service was incurring losses of about $500,000 annually.

Women's Society Of Bluffs Holds Regular Meeting

BLUFFS—The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Bluffs Methodist church held their regular November meeting in the church Thursday. Fifteen members answered roll call with a Bible verse with "nation." Devotions were led by Mrs. James Dugan. Mrs. Donald Morris presented the lesson "New Nations Shall Turn to the Lord" in a most interesting manner. She brought information presented at the School of Missions from a missionary who had been in India and Pakistan.

During the business session with Mrs. Morris presiding, reports of various officers were given. The feature of the December meeting will be gifts to be sent to Cunningham Children's home at Urbana. The gifts will not be wrapped and should be something suitable for a child 6 through 16 years old.

Mrs. Dugan presented an article about the Lima high school in Lima, Peru from a magazine. The meeting was closed by Mrs. Margaret Watson who gave material from the "Prayer Calendar." At the close of the meeting refreshments of chicken salad, crackers, mints, nuts and coffee were served by the hostesses. Mrs. James Dugan and Mrs. Merle Dunham.

Personals

Miss Catherine Anderson was surprised on her birthday, Monday, Nov. 8, when a party of ladies gathered at the home of Mrs. Leona Cox for a potluck supper and social evening. The feature of the supper was the birthday cake. The party was planned by Mrs. Cox. Those enjoying the evening were the guest of honor, Mrs. Merle Dunham, Jr., Mrs. Royal Oakes, Mrs. Harold Oakes, Mrs. Cornelia Leonhard, Mrs. Harvey Bartholomew, Mrs. Bertha Hobbs, Mrs. Beulah Ritter, Mrs. Etta Brockhouse, Miss Thelma Seely, Miss Beatrice Davis and the hostess. The honoree received a number of gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. William Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. Olive Chambers and Mrs. Earl Albers attended the Eastern Star installation in Griggsville Friday evening.

Cass Delegates At Convention

VIRGINIA—Glenn Herzberger, president of the Cass County Farm Bureau, announced the delegates to attend the TAA annual meeting, held in Chicago, Nov. 15-18. Delegates were Glenn Herzberger, James Ray Fox, Walter Adkins and Donald Bierhaus.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Crumrin also attended the annual meeting as guests of the Cass County Farm Bureau and Service Company. This is in recognition of their long and efficient service to their respective organizations.
